TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 13 1870.

THE PROPOSED PLATFORM. We republish to-day in our supplement our editorial of Sunday and the proposed platform accompanying. We also republish the extract from the speech of Mr. Shallabarger, of Ohio, on the nullification, secession and rebellious proclivities of the people of the South. To all of which we invite the attention of our readers generally, and especially the delegates to the Convention.

The convention to nominate a Conservative Democratic candidate for Congress in the second district was held at Knoxville on the 10th inst. Gen. Joseph A. Mabry, Col. John Williams, Col. A. Blizzard, Col. R. K. Byrd, and D. M. Nelson were not in nomination. Gen Mahry declined to allow his name to go before the convention, as he was not a candidate The first ballot resulted, for William 404, Bliggard 381, Byrd 9, and Nelson 9. The second ballot; Williams 40, Blizzard 48, and Byrd 9. Third bailot : Williams 394, Blizzard 494, and Byrd 9, Col. Blizzard's nomination was then made unanimous, and by acclamation and great applause, he was declared the unanimous choice of the convention. On being called upon, Col. Blizzard came forward and accepted the nomination. A committee, of which Gen. John C. Vaughn was chairman, reported the Greeneville resolutions, with a slight modification, as the platform of the party in the second district, and on motion of Col. John M. SECESSION. We have seen no delegate to the Conecession incorporated as a part of the Democratic platform. Indeed, every one would bitterly oppose the incorporation of any such plank in the platform. The Democracy of Tennessee would prefer as to that issue that it should be considered among the "dead issues," and be left with all of its good or ill unmentioned among the things that were. But can the Democracy of Tennessee say to the winds: "Peace; North tell us that Radicalism, to shield its own bideousness still and ever points to still?" Our brethren in the the ghost of secession and will not let it down. Radicalism still prates of the rampant spirit of secession; calls upon the rampant spirit of secession; c the Democracy of the North to point to been preserved? We should like an unequivocal disayowal of that right in it identified. Where is the the platform of any Southern Democratic original letter? Senator Abbott convention unconnected with the assertion says that he has it, and yet many days that such disavowal is the result of armed ago Gov. Holden wrote to him and he said he would send a certified copy, which force. Our Northern friends call upon has never been received. There is meanus to come up to their help by avowing in ness about this thing somewhere. We all its fullness and completeness the doc- desire to see it exploded. For the parties trine that a State has no right to secede. This we believe, arises from an truth to the public. The author of this imperfect view of both the past and infamy is still covered up. matter. It is clear that the people of the right of Secession. There was no leading Democrat who did not disavow it. Even our Declaration of Independence in 1861, dissolving the relations bepressly waived any expression of opinion as to the abstract doctrine of Secession. In 1857, when the election of United States Senator was before the Legislature, Dr. Richardson, of Rutherford, a friend of Mr. Bell, joined with other members of the Legislature in propounding a series of interrogatories to Mr. Nicholson and other candidates for the Senate, as to their views on secession and other questions. Upon the subject of accession, Mr. Nichyears. Some Democratic warmth is be- olson, who was the Democratic candidate, no Whig in Tennessee, who believed in

"I do not hold to the Constitutional right of secession, inasmuch as, in my pinion, secession is a revolutionary remdy, which, however, intolerable oppresion or aggression upon the rights of any people or State may justify.'

The doctrine here uttered by Mr. Nicholson is the exact doctrine of the platform proposed by us upon the subject of secesion. Upon that platform Mr. Nicholsen was elected to the United States Senate by the Democratic Legislature of 1857-8.

Our Declaration of Independence and ordinance dissolving the federal relations between the State of Tennessee and the United States of America says: "We, the people of the State of Tennessee, waiving any expression of secession, but asserting the right as a free and independent people to alter, reform or abolish our form of government in such manner as we think prop er, do ordain," etc. It will thus be seen that neither party in Tennessee previous to the war avowed the doctrine of secession, and our Declaration Judge has decided that the registrars of of Independence in 1861 placed the dissolution of our relations with the Federal Government not on the right of secession. but on the right of revolution, the right as a free and independent people to alter, reform or abolish our government in such manner as we may think proper. But if all had avowed the right of secession then, do not all know that the result of the war settled that question, and that henceforth any resistance made by any State of the Union to the United States will be based upon the right proclaimed in our proposed resolutions, the right of revolution? Here in Tennessee we can succeed upon my platform. But our friends north of the Ohio ask what it will benefit us to gain every civil district in Tennessee and lose all the North. Our deliverance come from the triumph of Northern Democracy. They ask us to make a platform which will be a complete and emphatic refutation of the harges of secession and rebellion against us by Radical stump-speakers. The platform proposed by us does not proceed from any desire on our part to resurrect ecession or to consider it other than a "dead issue." We would willingly let it sleep; but if the Democracy of the North can be assisted by our disavowal of that doctrine, then, as our safety depends on their success, let us disavow it. This Washington Chronicle says: does not disayow the right of resistance to oppression or reject the right to oppose tyranny. It simply disavows that to each State for alleged grievances from the lives and property of loyal men in the the general government,

MISREPRESENTATION AND FOR.

Some time previous to the August election, Judge Tourgee of North Carolina, (a carpet-bagger,) wrote a letter to Senstor Abbott, of that State, giving a list of utrages, which he claimed had been committed upon Union men, whites and negroes, in North Carolina. This letter was marked "personal," but Senator Abbott regarded the information and suggestions it contained as "calculated and no doubt intended to influence his course in public affairs," and he showed it to several Senators, and furnished a copy of it to Gov. Molden, which he says was by a trustworthy person. A copy of the in a note to the Tribune that his letter had been so garbled as to make him say what he did not say. The Tribune was indignant at this, and called upon Gov. Holden to explain who did garble the letter. Senator Abbott furnishes the Tritume a certified copy of Judge Tourgee's letter, and he claims that it is identical with the one he gave Holden. He therefore claims that whatever garbling Judge Tourgee's letter sustained was

> The Ruleigh Standard, Gov. Holden's organ, replies to the Tribune as follows: "We observe a card in the New York Tribune, signed by Jos. C. Abbott, Senator, which by implication lays the garbling of a letter written by Judge Tourgee at the door of Gov. Holden. We have given the lie to this statement before and we repeat it. The letter, or certified copy given Gov. Holden by Senator Abbott was handed to Mr. Beecher, the Tribune correspondent, for information and not for publication. However, it appeared in to see the manuscript and have to this garbling have evidently thus far

This is all very good as far as it goes, There is one notable feature about this

North Carolina were grossly and villainously slandered in the letter published in the New York Tribune. A part of that slander is traced to Judge Tourgee himtween the State and the United States ex- self. When he saw his letter in the Tribune he wrote to that paper that his letter had been tampered with, as he had stated originally that there were but four arsons and that he had put the number of houses broken open at 400 or 500. He thus convicted himself of a gross exaggeration in regard to the arsons, and he is just as likely to have done the same thing in regard to the house breaking, According to his own letter, he has been a swift witness against the people among whom he had taken up his residence. He has shown a surprising readiness to bring trouble upon them, and has not scrupled as to the means by which this was to be done. But there are others equally criminal with himself, and they all deserve to be branded with the infamy of falsifiers of the truth. The Tribune has shown some zeal in its efforts to discover the person who "garbled" Judge Tourgee's letter. But this is done simply to expose the person who palmed off upon that paper a forgery. It is not done that the vilifier of the people of North Carolina may be held up the scorn and indignation of honest men every where. If the Tribune would turn its batteries upon the carpet-baggers and scalawags who concoct these villainous stories about outrages nifying such as have been, it would accomplish something, perhaps much, toward restoring the quiet and harmony which should prevail in the Southern States. The correspondence the Tribune has already published in regard to this matter, shows conclusively that the pur pose was to misinterpret the state of feeling in North Carolina, and to show that there was little regard paid to law in that State. The letter was written to influence the action of Congress and the Presdent, and to justify Gov. Holden's disregard of the law and the rights of citi zens of North Carolina, and it was almost accidental that it was given to the public. It was made public after it had been garbled, so as to exert a greater influence in behalf of Holden. It was a crime in its inception, and the person who garbled it only added to its infamy, and the Tribune cannot well preserve its character as an honest journal without denouncing the whole proceeding. We cite the case as an interesting specimen showing how 'outrages" in the Southern States are manufactured in order to affect the

THE NEW FOOD SOURCE.

SEA MOSS FARINE .- This new and elegant preparation, made from Irish Moss, or Caragreen, is conceded to be the cheapest, healthiest and most delicious food in the world. As a delightful table dessert i has no equal, and it is a light and delicate food for invalids and children. It is superior to all kindred preparations.

This new article of food has everywhere won "golden opinions" of all sorts of people, and the house-heepers of the land gen erally regard it in the double light of a staple necessary and a delicious luxury, for while it lessens the expense of living, the exquisite dishes prepared from it cannot be obtained even at an extravagant cost from any other source. For 25 cents you can buy package which will make sixteen quarts of Blane Mange, and a like quantity of Pud dings, Custards, Creams, Charlotte Russe,

THE GREAT SPRING AND SUMMER TONIC

Northern mind-to fire the Northern heart Medical treatment has been revolutionized, and at last the discovery has been made that Renocation, not Prostrution, is the true Medical Philosophy. The introduction of PLANTATION BITTERS, prepared with pure St. Croix Rum and Calisaya Bark, opened the eyes of the world to this great fact. The life sustaining principle embodied in this great Vegetable Restorative is manifested in the weak and desponding by an immediate and most ancouraging change. If the appetite has failed, it is quickened; if digestion has been painful and imperfect, it becomes easy and thorough: if the liver is torpid, it is roused and regulated; if the nerves are re laxed, they are strengthened and restrung; if the brain has been haunted by morbid fancies, they are put to flight, and hope and cheerfulness return. In the face of the ex traordinary cures of general debility, dys pepsia, biliousness, constipation and mental despondency, wrought by Plantation Bitters, no practitioner not in league with death and the undertaker could persist in it. The terrible evacuents which were one prescribed as the spring and summer medicines, have utterly lost their prestige. The sick will not take them, and Plantation Bitters, in which are combined the ele ments of a stomachic, and invigorant, mild laxative, a nervine and an anti-bilious specific, reign in their stead.
